Does not have wolves 0/10. Okayish game, too expensive. I didn't play this game a lot, but I usually really invest time before doing reviews.

Not so much this time, because the Devs ditched this one quite a while ago in a unfinished state full of bugs and balancing issues. The game itself is not bad, it's actually pretty fun but there's quite a few bugs that hold back your characters potential power, making it way too hard in later stages.

TL;DR don't buy.. im not even going attempt to process what i just saw.

The title is not just for show; many of the assets carried over from x2 have been redrawn or modified to fit the theme.

Edit: Notable New Features

Deathgeon - Ten floor dungeon where enemies start at high levels and difficult types/traps are common. Loss only occurs when you run out of time, not when you become KO'd. Supposedly you fight bosses from previous ClaDun installments on the final floor.

Mu-Geon - Technically not new, but it was not in ClaDun x2 and reappears in Returns with a caveat: Mu-Geons negate the effects of titles on equipment, artifacts, etc.

The Arena - A dungeon that consists solely of a circular arena. Kill a wave of mobs to access two chests, the exit, and a portal to the next floor. Each floor forces you through a random gate. Great for using classes or builds that would normally be bad at sustaining themselves in a standard Rangeon. Great source of titles, but really poor exp farm.

Ex Dungeons - Rearranged versions of the dungeons you played during the story. Generally more difficult but more rewarding. One unique recruitable character lives in each stage, so this is a great source of characters if you are feeling unimaginative and want some stock characters to round out your roster.

The Castle - Basically a universal, secondary Magic Circle. Each space requires a somewhat expensive stone piece. The rarer the piece, the more stats it gives and the less likely it is to recieve a disenchantment. You can pay a decent sum of gold to remove these debuffs and keep the stone or just remove a stone entirely.

Weapon Refinement - Weapons will get kill points the more you use them in dungeons. You can redeem these at the Blacksmith to attach weak titles in all four slots. You can use this system to quickly farm weak titles for your Armor and Shield.

Quests - Yes quests! These can range from visiting old story dungeons to kill new enemies that have spawned in them or clearing certain stages in a certain amount of time. They are repeatable with diminishing returns and give gold, items, and even fame.

Pokemon meets Bejeweled.. Very good idea, every run will test you. Not much to say about this but the fact that it's boring. All you're doing is collect random junks scattered at the bottom of the sea, basically. I can see the taste the developer intended/was trying to add to the game but it's just not working, would've been whole lot better if this was a short movie with a good story.

Trading cards drop rate is also EXTREMELY slow. My total playtime is pretty much the time I've afk-ed for the sake of cards. You need patience.. It's cool if it had multiplayer, but it's still cool because the devs acctually listen to their custumers and add things that needs there! :D. As a STEM specialist, I am always looking for great build-it games. This is REALLY good fun. It's simplicity means there is no choking of the system and in simple terms, it just works!

From the moment I started, I was able to build a quick car and drive, all before trying out their own models and then some Workshop ones.

A BARGAIN FOR THE FUN, I will be doing a review of this game for my STEM group at school.

Superb!!! (I giggled like a little boy again!). i cant get rid off your user screen, whats wrong witgh you guys, design better, im using htc VIve. Very short, but very well done. Too creepy for me to finish (I was very near the end, it turns out) so I watched a vid of someone else finishing it. I would LOVE to see more narrative games done in this sort of way. Just not as creepy. Something with this foundation, but with some player choice and a bit of branching (even just pseudo in-scene branching like Life is Strange or other light adventure games) could be really great.

Bottom line: definitely worth a playthrough. Especially if you're designing for VR.. cant hold mouse-key. you have to click vor every shot. This game will haunt my dreams. I am obsessed. The music runs through my mind, and I hear laughter in the background.

If you're into narrative-heavy games but need them to be attached to good gameplay mechanics, this is your game. It's easy to find yourself obsessing over it; which is fitting, given the theme of the game.

Just take care not to lose your own soul while trying to restore your daughter's. I've been playing this game for past an hour. Personally it's really fun, fighting through hordes of zombies with some pretty fun mechanics and weapons you'll find lying around.

The music as usual with Frank's other work (City of Rott, Dead Fury, and Shock Invasion) is well put together, it gets you pumped up as you play.

Though some of my complaints is the collision and how the zombie touches, they'll barely touch you and you'll lose so many health. Sometimes when you use the gun it will not kill them, the bullets will just fly past them. Most importantly the control mechanic, I'm just not use to playing on keyboard, I was really hoping there was a control mechanic so I could play with my xbone controller.

All that being said, It's still a fun game regardless, I mean the game is 2.99 so it's a win win.

I give this game a $7\sqrt{10}$, it could be better but it's not bad.
